

Questioning your questions

Jack and Max are walking from religious service. Jack wonders whether it would be okay to eat while praying.

Max replies, "Why don't you ask the Priest?"

So Jack goes up to the Priest and asks, "Priest, may I eat while I pray?"

But the Priest says, "No, my son, you may not. That's utter disrespect to our religion and to God."

Jack goes back to his friend and tells him what the Priest told him.

Max says, "I'm not surprised. You asked the wrong question. Let me try."

And so Max goes up to the Priest and asks, "Priest, may I pray while I eat?"

The Priest eagerly replies, "By all means, my son! By all means!"

Moral of the story:

The reply you get depends on the question you ask. Question your questions and think before you ask.

Curiosity and questions are the foundations for knowledge and understanding. Ask the right questions and you will get meaningful answers. This applies to both business and professional life. Give it a try the next time you ask.
